COURSE DESCRIPTION

In this course we will explore the works of Anglo-Canadian author, Margaret Atwood (1939–), whose literary influence continues to be of significant interest. In 2017, numerous media, literary, and cultural critics called it “The Year of Atwood,” as two of her novels, The Handmaid’s Tale (1986) and Alias Grace (1996), aired as critically praised television series on Hulu and Netflix, respectively. Atwood is a vocal activist within the realms of political, feminist, and environmental issues, and throughout her long and distinguished career, her creative output engages numerous genres, themes, and critical approaches. We will be reading and discussing a broadly representative range of the Atwood “canon,” including her poetry, short fiction, and novels, as well as the sub-genres of fairy tale, myth, speculative, and historical fiction. The course will be organized around a range of themes and motifs that can be found across Atwood’s work: national identity, wilderness spaces, post/colonialism, language, gender, class, age, sexual politics, vision, survival, violence, trauma, war, environmentalism, and posthumanism. Students should complete this course with not only a grounded knowledge in the extent of Atwood’s creative diversity but also the depth of her political, cultural, and ecological investments.

COURSE OUTCOMES

As indicators of successful achievement of the course content and objectives, students will:

1. demonstrate, through oral and written responses, their ability to understand and close-read various genres, themes, and motifs present in the works of a significant literary author;
2. demonstrate, through oral and written responses, their understanding of and ability to apply critical vocabulary and concepts in the interpretations of literary texts;
3. demonstrate, through oral and written responses, their engagement with interpretive approaches and important critical trends used in the analysis of literary texts;
4. produce papers that appropriately incorporate and respond to secondary as well as primary sources, and are properly formatted and correctly cited according to MLA style.

WRITING ACROSS THE CURRICULUM OUTCOMES

This is an Integrated Writing course for English and Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies majors, which requires at least 5000 words of writing, at least half of which will be evaluated formally and all of which will count as part of students' performance in the course. Writing assignments will be evaluated for content, form, style, and overall writing proficiency. Students are expected to produce writing that:

- Demonstrates their understanding of course content,
- Is appropriate for the audience and purpose of a particular writing task,
- Demonstrates the degree of mastery of disciplinary writing conventions appropriate to the course (including documentation conventions), and
- Shows competency in standard edited American English.

COURSE EVALUATION:

Grades are based on the following points (1,000 total)

| | |
|-------------------------------|-----|
| Critical Responses (3) | 300 |
| Research Essay | 300 |
| Final Exam | 250 |
| Participation | 150 |

| | |
|----------------|---|
| Grading Scale: | |
| 90-100% | A |
| 80-89% | B |
| 70-79% | C |
| 60-69% | D |
| 0-59% | F |

Critical Responses (10% each = 30%)

See guidelines and rubric on course website. Student sample essays available in Pilot.

Research Essay (30%): See guidelines and rubric on course website. Student sample essay available in Pilot. You are free to revise and develop any of your critical responses into your research essay.

Final Exam (25%): The final exam is cumulative; it will consist of multiple-choice and short-answer questions on Atwood’s novels, and two essay questions on her poetry and short fiction. The exam will be given during exam week and must be taken at its scheduled day and time, no exceptions.

Participation (15%): Students are expected to attend class fully prepared to contribute to discussion, which includes completing all reading assigned for that day, responding to questions, and engaging respectfully with peers. If you meet all these expectations then you will receive full credit (FC/fully present); if you are clearly unprepared or unwilling to participate, arrive late or leave early, you will receive partial credit (PC/non-participatory); if you are absent or engage in any disruptive behaviors (see general conduct rules below), you will receive no credit (NC/absent). Simply showing up to class does not mean you are fully present, and absences are factored into your final participation grade, which is based on the average of points that you have earned for the semester. You can keep track of your participation points in Pilot by clicking on the Attendance tab and selecting “Participation.”

Attendance Policy: Missing more than 6 classes, including partially missed classes, will lead to at least a full letter grade deduction (100 points) from your overall final grade for the course. I am flexible with the need for excused absences due to illness, personal or family emergency, or occasional scheduling conflicts, as long as you communicate with me before class (if possible) and/or do not repeatedly ask for excused absences throughout the semester.

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES FOR WRITING ASSIGNMENTS

All papers must be formatted according to the most recent MLA style guidelines, using Times New Roman 12-point font, and the word count indicated at the end of the paper (e.g. "WC: 2,500"). Critical Response essays are due in hard copy (printed in black ink that is legible) at the start of class on the dates indicated in the class calendar. You must submit electronic copies of all essays to the Pilot dropbox in a Word attachment (.doc, .docx, or .rtf); if you do not submit a copy to the dropbox or submit your paper in a format that cannot be opened, it will not be graded. If you are absent from class on the day an assignment is due, you only need to submit an electronic copy to Pilot.

GENERAL EVALUATION CRITERIA FOR ALL WRITTEN WORK

- A = Demonstrates advanced critical thinking skills and outstanding knowledge of the readings and course content. Ideas are original and depth of analysis is excellent. Writing is clear, concise, free of basic errors, easy to follow and shows excellent command of language and disciplinary style.
 - B = Demonstrates critical thinking and familiarity with readings and course content; provides relevant examples. Writing is coherent, concise, easy to follow, and nearly free of basic errors.
 - C = Demonstrates basic understanding of the readings and other course content and can provide a good summary of material but only provides superficial analysis and support for issues raised. Writing is coherent and easy to follow but wordy, repetitious and/or marred by numerous errors.
 - D = Demonstrates minimal understanding of readings and course content; ideas are vague or not supported by any analysis and shows overall lack of effort. Writing lacks general coherence and shows little to no command of the English language.
 - F = Demonstrates serious lack of understanding of readings and other course content; serious lack of analysis and/or effort. Writing is incoherent and impossible to follow

ACADEMIC HONESTY GUIDELINES & POLICY

Penalties for academic dishonesty and student procedure in academic dishonesty prosecution are clarified in the Wright State University Student Handbook and on the Office of Community Standards & Student Conduct website at: <http://www.wright.edu/students/judicial/integrity.html>. Plagiarism is using other people's ideas and/or words without crediting them, and is considered intellectual theft; paraphrasing also requires citations and page numbers. For further information about plagiarism, refer to: <http://www.wright.edu/academics/writingctr/resources/plagiarism.html>.

INSTRUCTOR POLICY ON PLAGIARISM: If any portion of submitted work is plagiarized, you will receive a "0" on that assignment; if you commit a second offense, regardless of circumstances, you will receive an F for the entire course and may be subject to disciplinary action.

GENERAL CONDUCT & COURSE POLICIES

NB: Failure to follow these guidelines may lead to dismissal from the class.*

- You are expected to compose yourself as if in a professional environment. This includes attending class regularly and on time, being prepared for each class session, and contributing to course requirements as if you were in a workplace. Unprofessional behavior will imperil your ability to get a good grade, but also your ability to receive a letter of recommendation from me should the need arise. I request that you address me as Dr. Jennings and not by first name. For some of the contexts and reasons behind this general preference and standard of professional etiquette, I recommend reading this New York Times essay: "U Can't Talk to Ur Professor Like This".

- Cell phones must be turned off and put away. Unless given prior approval, laptops, tablets, and recording of class discussions are not permitted. If you are using a digital text or require use of an electronic device due to a disability, please let me know at the start of the semester.
 - Respect toward peers and the instructor includes active listening, even if your views differ, and refraining from bigotry and intolerance toward others. Although your individual opinions about the texts and issues explored in this class are encouraged, you must be able to present your interpretations or stance through an informed lens, using critical thinking and/or verifiable evidence beyond personal beliefs or anecdotal experiences (such as reference to textual examples, reliable secondary sources, or socio-cultural, historical, and political contexts).
 - You are expected to follow the class calendar and assignment guidelines. If you are confused about any of these it is your responsibility to ask for clarification, and NOT the night before something is due. I do not accept late submissions and any missing assignment will receive a zero. All submission deadlines are posted in the class calendar below as well as in Pilot.
 - Extensions are granted ONLY in extreme cases of illness or emergency, which must be documented and, if possible, communicated to me before the due date and not after the missed deadline. Regardless of circumstances, I reserve the right to deny any requests for extensions and will only grant incompletes to students who have consistently attended class and are missing no more than 1-2 assignments. I do not offer individual extra credit opportunities; extra credit assignments are only provided as an option available to the entire class.
 - Raider Mail is the best way to communicate with me. You can expect to receive a reply within a 24-hour period on weekdays; I normally do not respond to e-mail on weekends. Check the newsfeed on the course homepage in Pilot for any class updates or info. If I make changes to the syllabus or class calendar, I explain these in class and post them in Pilot.
